

CHC33015 CERTIFICATE III IN INDIVIDUAL SUPPORT (DISABILITY)

COURSE INFORMATION

The CHC33015 Certificate III in Individual Support (Disability) will equip you with the industry knowledge and hands-on experience to provide individualised support and care to those who are elderly or disabled in aged care and in-home settings.

Working within the aged care industry can be a rewarding, satisfying, and fulfilling career that will make a positive impact on the elderly community. With numerous challenges on a physical and emotional level, this essential and necessary sector is projected to flourish and grow exponentially throughout the coming years. This sector provides services for more than 1.2 million citizens and this is estimated to double in the near future, increasing the need for more skilled and qualified workers to join this industry.

This sector is predicated to become one of the largest areas of employment in the next two decades. Position vacancies are set to grow in order to meet these ever-increasing demands, providing myriad opportunities for you to be involved in a life-changing industry.

Once you've gained the relevant experience and qualifications, you can successfully begin your satisfying and rewarding career in helping others and changing their lives for the better.

This qualification will help you prepare for your rewarding career within the sector. You will learn how to provide individualised support, communicate and work in health or community services, work with diverse people, follow safe work practices for direct client care and support the independence and well-being of your clients.

There are 120 hours of work placement required to achieve competency in this qualification; depending on your specialisation you will complete the hours in an aged care facility, disability support service or respite centres.

This nationally accredited qualification provides the foundations required to upskill and pursue further course studies in the community and health care setting or go on to university.
