

TLI40619 CERTIFICATE IV IN WAREHOUSING OPERATIONS

Workers with advanced skills are highly sought after within the growing warehousing and logistics sector. Sharpen your knowledge in warehousing operations, and increase your career opportunities, with the TLI40619 Certificate IV in Warehousing Operations.

The transport, postal and warehousing sector is a vital part of the Australian economy and is an essential part of everyday living. Working within this industry allows you to apply a variety of skills across a range of career pathways. This sector encompasses various job prospects, such as becoming a warehouse operator, postal and courier deliverer, and freight handler.

This sector is projected to grow by 4.3 percent by May 2023. Employment growth within this industry is fuelled by the shift to online shopping and distribution, which reflects Australian consumer habits and shopping preferences.

Upon completion of this qualification, you will be equipped with the knowledge and skillset to bolster this essential sector of the Australian workforce, while also being able to work across various areas and help others with behind the scenes work that will be worthwhile.

This qualification is aimed at managing distribution at the highest levels, where you will gain essential practical skills and workplace specific knowledge including how to assess optimum stock levels and customer transport requirements, work and facilitate a team, deliver and coordinate quality customer service and implement workplace health and safety procedures.

This nationally accredited qualification provides the foundations required to upskill and pursue further course studies in the warehousing and logistics industry or go on to university.
